

COLD OPEN

INT. KITCHEN - MORNING

OLIVE (16 physically but 86 mentally) sits at the kitchen table, drinking Earl Grey tea and doing the New York Times crossword. Her father, JACK (40s), enters the room. He's half asleep and jumps a little when Olive says --

OLIVE
Good morning, Dad!

JACK
Shit! You're awake?

OLIVE
It's almost noon.

JACK
Yeah. Yeah, right. Are you hungry?
I was going to make pancakes.

OLIVE
I already ate oatmeal.

JACK
How about pancakes for lunch?

OLIVE
That sounds like a way to fast
track diabetes.

Jack sighs and pours himself a bowl of Lucky Charms.

JACK
So... I thought we could do something today. Together. To-um... yeah.

OLIVE Oh! That would be fantastic. I would love to see what Florida has to offer.

JACK Great! Orlando's got a lot. We could go to Disney World or the zoo. There's also the mall. Teenage girls like shopping, right?

OLIVE
I was thinking... what about the Ponce de Leon Lighthouse?

JACK
What?

OLIVE
It's a really interesting landmark,
and it has a connecting historical museum detailing the life of 19th century lighthouse keepers and their families.

JACK
With everything in Florida, you want to see a lighthouse?

Olive nods.

JACK (CONT'D)
Did you have any other... hobbies?
When you lived with your grandparents?

OLIVE
I like knitting. I like going to the opera. I was in a book club --

JACK
What about SeaWorld?

OLIVE
Not after they tanked my stock in 2013.

Jack scrutinizes Olive.

JUMP CUT TO:

EXT. RETIREMENT HOME DRIVEWAY - DAY

JACK
Make friends! I'll pick you up at 7:30!

Jack speeds away in a car as Olive is left standing in front of "Palm Hills Retirement Home."

OLIVE
But Jeopardy starts at 7:30!